

Dear FCC,

As far as I remember the Constitution of the United States, states rights are a very sacrocynct item. Why are you crumbling to big business and dumbing down Indiana's No Call list powers?

I do not want, nor desire, to be deluged by telemarketers or offers, even from those businesses I have dealings with. If I want to contact them, I will. These people do not have the right to contact me via the telephone I pay for just because they want to.

Leave Indiana's law alone, it is wanted by the people of the state and sanctioned by the state, this is NOT federal business. Don't try to make my life worse in an attempt to make your business buddies better. State Law my friends, Article 8 of that document that sits in the National Archives - you know the one, I think it is called the Constitution of the United States of America. Kind of a big guideline of how laws can be constructed. Think about it
